JOHN STABRYLIA HELD IN DYNAMITING AFFAIR

Bodenshock and Bealy Discharged When Boy Refutes Statement

FACES MURDER CHARGE

Charged with murder, John Stabrylia, John Bodenshock and John Bealy, of the Snow Shoe district, were given a habeas corpus hearing on Saturday, continued until Tuesday morning, when Judge Quigley held Stabrylia, without bail, and discharged Bodenshock and Bealy.

Sergeant Grafkosky, of the State Constabulary force, was the first witness sworn. He told of how John Bodenshock and John Bealy had driven from their homes at Moshannon to Clarence and along the road to Snow Shoe in a buggy in which they had a number of sticks of dynamite in the rear. An investigation and search at the home of John Stabrylla revealed, Grafkosky said, that he had a burlap bag and 23 sticks of dynamite, the bag being similar in size and color to one found in the debris caused by wrecking the house at Pancake where William Bukosky, "a scab," was killed when the dwelling was dynamited on or about March 14, 1922. He rehearsed details in connection with the dynamiting that have been previously published and brought up at hearings.

He brought out that ill feeling existed at the time and previously between the union miners who had not been working on account of the bituminous coal strike and the "scabs," as the men were termed who came into Snow Shoe or did not belong to any union, and accepted employment by the operators. In the cross examination, when questioned by S. D. Gettig, who with William G. Runkle and an out of town attorney, represented the defendants, Grafkosky told of the men implicating one another by statements which they are alleged to have admitted. Among some of the statements was mentioned that Stabrylla had on several occasions, it was alleged, told of having at his home a bomb with which he was going to fix the "scabs" and that after the dynamiting affair, he had told at his barber shop, that it was good for the "scabs." He said he did not know that Stabrylla was a miner but that he had, so far as he could learn, been a barber and had followed barbering more than mining.

The second witness was Corporal John McHugh, who was in charge of the State Constabulary in this district, and who came to Snow Shoe about March 16, with other state police and local officials, cooperating in a determined effort to protect Centre County industry and ferret out the parties responsible for the dynamiting affair. He said that Stabrylla had been arrested once before but that it was for a violation of the prohibition laws. He also told of the burlap bags and said that the only difference he could see in them was that the one found in Staybrylla's house was in pretty good shape and the one found in the wreckage of the house dynamited was badly shattered.

Other witnesses called were John Franeck and Andy Soltis, of Clarence; Walter Fye, who had previously worked in the Snow Shoe district, and two sons of John Hodenshock, one, Johnnie, having given state policemen a signed statement which he refuted in court as he sobbed and seemed much out of place.

Judge Quigley became impatient when it appeared that two of the witnesses were trying to handicap the proceedings by holding back things they did not wish to become known in court. He very frankly told one of the witnesses that he was sworn and there to tell the truth and not conceal anything and that failure so to do would make him subject to indictment for perjury which would be considered a very serious offense.

Risked Life to Save Boy.

A young man from Nanticoke wrecked his Ford coupe and risked his life in saving Edgar Showers, a crippled boy, of Nittany, from, serious injury. The accident occurred at the Will Beck farm, near Snydertown, where there is a dangerous curve in the state highway. The young man was driving toward Bellefonte, intending to go to State College to be on hand for the championship basket ball game between the Nanticoke and Homestead teams. Just as he rounded the curve in the highway, he saw the Showers boy, who was selling newspapers and delivering them to patrons, in a wheel-chair and in his path. He swerved his car quickly and it shot up an embankment and upset. The young man was cut by glass but escaped serious injury while Showers was not hurt.

BELL TELEPHONE RATES

Change in Schedule Will Have No Effect Here.

A new schedule of telephone rates affecting certain classes of local service in approximately 100 exchanges in Pennsylvania and making several changes in long distance rates, was filed with the Public Service Commission in Harrisburg on Monday by The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, to become effective May 1.

No change will be made in the local telephone rates for exchanges in Centre county under the new schedule.

Business rates in general in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh will be increased by the new schedule, as will some residence party-line rates in Philadelphia.

The new rates provide a charge of $4 for a new installation of a business telephone instead of $3.50, as at present. The rate for a new installation of a residence telephone will not be changed, nor will that for "left in stations, where a telephone left by one subscriber is taken over by another moving in.

The rates for private branch exchange equipment, private lines, etc. are affected by the new schedule. It also provides that only one directory listing per subscriber shall be free and that additional listings shall be charged for at the rate of 25 cents per month.

Where telephone service has been denied for nonpayment of bills, there will be a restoral of service charge of $1.00 under the new schedule, a measure which telephone officials believe will decrease the cost of collections.

A change is also made in the rate schedule for long distance messages that will add five cents to station-to station day rate calls over distances of approximately 30 to 104 miles inclusive. Person-to person rates, under the new schedule, where the distance is more than 30 miles and not more than 112 miles will be increased by amounts ranging from 5 cents to 15 cents.

Enclosed with his April bill each Bell subscriber in Pennsylvania will get a notice stating to what extent the new rates will affect his service. In addition the complete schedules as filed with the Public Service Commission will be on file in all of the business offices of the telephone company.

Osceola Mills Man Is Missing.

Orlando Merryman, a well known and middle-aged resident of Osceola Mills, has caused his friends much concern by his abrupt leaving of the little house he occupied alone. When he was not seen about his home for several days, neighbors investigated and found the furniture in the house topsy-turvy, as though something very unusual had occurred. Investigating, it was learned that he had left a note at the home of S. B. Stine, where he was employed to look after the furnace. The note stated that he was going away and did not know when he would return. That was on Sunday, March 23rd, and he has not been heard from since that time.

Sampsel—Hassinger.

Harold Sampsel and Martha Hassinger, well known young folks of Bellefonte, were united in marriage last Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the Evangelical parsonage by the pastor, Rev. Reed O. Steely. Mr. Sampsel is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Sampsel, who reside on the Humes farm. He is employed by Col. J. L. Spangler and is an industrious young man. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hassinger, who reside near the Fair ground. They will reside on South Spring street. A host of friends joins "The Republican" in best wishes.

Wert—Owens.

Oscar Wert, of Millheim, and Miss Jennie Owens, of Buffalo Run valley, were united in marriage at the Evangelical parsonage in Bellefonte on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Reed O. Steely. The bride is a daughter of William and the late Mrs. Cora Owens. They will reside on the Roan homestead farm where the bride's parents had resided. A host of friends wishes them a long and happy life.

Mrs. Ad Hartswick Injured.

When an automobile owned and driven by Ad Hartswick, whose wife was also in the car, skidded on Bishop street and struck a tree, Mrs. Hartswick was thrown cut and painfully cut but not seriously injured on Tuesday. Mr. Hartswick has disposed of his hotel interests in Lock Haven and moved to Spring Mills.

Quarantines.

The Van Jodon home on Curtin street was quarantined for scarlet fever on Tuesday. The home of Mrs. George F. Harris, on Linn street, was quarantined for mumps on Tuesday, Mrs. Harris' granddaughter, Betty Curtin, having the painful malady.

CONVICT SENTENCED FOR CAUSING DEATH OF PAL

Given Two to Four Years for Voluntary Manslaughter

VICTIM OF MISFORTUNE

William Muse, colored convict who has been a victim of misfortune, entered a plea of guilty of murder before Judge Quigley in a special session of court on Tuesday morning and was sentenced to serve two to four years in the Western penitentiary.

The sympathy of everyone in court seemed with Muse, regardless of the fact that he had grossly exceeded his authority, as Judge Quigley expressed it in sentencing the unfortunate man. Even Deputy Warden Healy, called to tell of the prisoner's record at Rockview, said:

"I feel sorry for him. He seemed to be an inveterate gambler—most of the prisoners are—and we had changed him to this block about one year ago, thinking it would be for his own good. He never seemed like a vicious character but had a good record. His parole from prison on March 13, when his minimum sentence was completed, had been recommended, but was revoked the same day because we could not afford to let him go until we felt more sure Mason would recover. We did not feel at the time that the affair would be fatal for we had on several occasions been confronted with even more perplexing situations that cleared all right."

The testimony in the proceedings made twelve large typewritten pages and from it has been gleaned the following statements as most interesting:

From the testimony of Joseph Beezer, a guard at Rockview prison:

Question—What happened on the night of the 8th of March, 1924.

Answer—The officer told me there was a fight and to come down at once. I went down and he had the man who died out in the hallway, and he had a baseball bat he had taken from the other fellow. I asked him what the trouble was and he said he owed him 50 cents for tobacco, and I did not find any knife or anything on either one of them, and I sent this fellow to bed and was going to send the other fellow to the hospital and he asked me to get his shirt for him and I stepped in the room and this fellow stepped around behind the officer and struck the other fellow a blow.

Q—In Centre County?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you find any knife or weapon of any kind concealed on them?

A—No, sir.

Q—Did either one of them resist you when you told them you were going to separate them and put one in the hospital?

A—No, sir.

Q—It was Mason who came back in the dining hall where Muse was?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—You didn't see Muse follow Mason anywhere?

A—No, sir.

Q—Mr. Beezer am I correctly informed that when the trouble first took place the sympathy of the prisoners seemed to be with Muse when Mason hit him with a base ball bat, and after Muse struck Mason and he fell down on the floor and they realized he was seriously hurt that public opinion changed and went to Mason.

A—Yes, sir.

Q—They felt he had not treated Mason right?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Isn't it a fact Mr. Beezer that defendant has but one arm?

A—Yes, sir.

A—Yes, sir.

Q—What had this defendant's record been prior to that, was he what is known as a good prisoner?

A—Yes, sir.

William Muse, the defendant, was next to take the witness chair, being duly sworn and testified in part as follows:

Q—William, how old are you?

A—About thirty years old.

Q—Where were you born and raised?

A—Union City, Tenn.

Q—When did you come north?

A—1904.

The prisoner then answered a number of questions as to places he had worked. In one answer, he told of losing his arm in an accident on the Norfolk and Western Railroad in Virginia.

Q—You were sent to the Eastern Penitentiary?

A—No, sir, I got my sentence in New Castle.

Q—How long were you in the Pittsburgh Penitentiary before you were removed to the Rockview Penitentiary?

A—A little over three months.

Q—And have you been at Rockview ever since?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—And had about a week to serve before expirationof your minimum term?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—How long had you known this man Mason?

A—About all the time.

Q—Had you known him since you were sent to Rockview?

A—Yes, since he was in the Merit House in the same block.

Q—How long were you together in the same block?

A—About a year.

Q—Where your beds close together?

A—Side by side.

Q—And naturally you saw a good bit of this man?

A—Yes, sir.

HOSPITAL DRIVE DEMANDS EVERYBODY'S ATTENTION

$100,000 to Raise Means All Must Help Next Week.

COUNTY ORGANIZATION

The hospital drive for $100,000 to be raised from April 4 to April 14 inclusive means that everybody's co-operation is needed now. For months the campaign has been under consideration and the past several weeks there has been especial preparation and a county organization effected. Leading citizens of every community and district are hard at work to make the drive a success. Its an undertaking that we may all be proud of and that simply must be put over or the slogan, "Serve Centre's Sick", must forever haunt those who fail now to do their duty. Its a county affair but it is just as much an individual proposition, too. Each one must ask of himself what is expected and then all must respond freely as the only answer comes back, "Do your best".

There are a few things to consider when one thinks of what is expected. This is the first drive ever put on in the County for money to "Serve Centre's Sick." There have been numerous things arranged and carried out by various persons or organizations that have always been appreciated. But many communities have an annual drive. Centre County's drive is coming this once.

The hospital property today represents an investment of $85,000, to say the least. There is a splendid organization of capable and efficient officers, nurses and others, who stand ever eager to "Serve Centre's Sick." They have much to contend with and have made but few mistakes. Who doesn't make mistakes occasionally? But all in all, the organization is as good as found anywhere and deserves unstinted support.

There has cropped out now and again censure about the cost of operation and what is done with the money received from patients. To post any of our readers who may be interested and we think all should be, "The Republican" reporter requested from one of the members of the hospital board a statement of income and expenditures. From this statement we glean the following:

In 1919 the income was $23,682 80 and the expenditures, $27,953.13, showing a deficit of more than $4,000. Income was from private rooms, $14,423.74; contributions, $1,705.06; state appropriation, $7,500. The expenditures were for general maintenance, $26,108.13, and replacements, $1,845.

In 1921, when financing was most expensive, the income was $32,716 17 and the expenditures, $35,064.59, showing a deficit of less than $3,000. The private room patients paid $20,420.09 and contributions were $2,295.08, while the appropriation was $10,000. Maintenance costs were $32,478.51 and replacements cost $2,586 08.

Last year, the income was $27,205.05 apportioned as follows: private room patients, $17,605 05; contributions, $600; appropriation, $9,000. General maintenance cost $26,948.02.

The 708 patients at the hospital last year were looked after, as a total, for 12,300 days. The patient was furnished with a warm room, boarding, nursing, medical and surgical supplies, and constantly attended for $2.33 per day, the total expenditures being $27,339.22.

Judge Quigley's Appeal.

To the Citizens of Centre County:

The intensive drive for $100,000 for your Hospital opens with a dinner at the Brockerhoff House Friday evening of this week, at which time most of the workers will assemble to receive final instructions.

Instead of inadequate, unserviceable and limited hospital facilities, the purpose is to modernize the present buildings and equipment and erect and equip a new wing. The poorer people and those with moderate means will do their full share. They always do for such worthy enterprises. If those who have the ability to give liberal subscriptions will give in keeping with their ability to do so, every needed improvement can be made and the drive will be a success.

The one and only thing that will forward this cause is generous subscriptions from all, and particularly from those who are recognized as best able to give. The campaign will succeed or fail depending on the generosity of this latter group. The time for talking is over. Your interests must now be expressed by your gift, based on your power to give.

HENRY C. QUIGLEY,
Chairman.

MRS. MOUNTZ EMPHATIC IN INDORSING COOLIDGE

Candidate for National Delegate Visits Centre County.

ASSURED OF SUPPORT

A representative audience gathered in the Grand Jury room in the Court House in Bellefonte on Saturday evening and were much impressed with a timely address by Mrs. S. J. Mountz, candidate for Republican national delegate from this Congressional District.

Mrs. Mountz declared herself unreservedly for Coolidge for President. She stressed the fact that there was no other course to follow and reflect the sentiment of Republicans. A glowing tribute was accorded President Coolidge for the sane policies he has adhered to since taking the great responsibility as head of the American nation. Mrs. Mountz said she was for Coolidge because of his ability and his achievement toward keeping the country on a sane and sound basis. Protective legislation was also discussed and all present were impressed that Mrs. Mountz deserves the support of every Republican.

Mrs. Roy Wilkinson, president of the local organization of Women Voters, presided at the meeting and called upon the following persons for talks:

Wilson I. Fleming, candidate for County Chairman; Mrs. George W. Zeigler, of Philipsburg, candidate for vice chairman of the Republican County Committee; T. H. Harter, Prothonotary Roy Wilkinson, of Bellefonte; George Fox, of Jonesville, which is Mrs. Mountz's home town, also Mrs. Leah Cobb Marion, of Harrisburg, president of the State organization of the League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Marion's talk was practical. She emphasized that the best way to serve and secure lasting results in government is for every voter to be affiliated with a party; then stand by your party.

On Saturday afternoon there was an enthusiastic meeting at State College, where more than 100 persons enjoyed talks by Mrs. Mountz, Mrs. Marion, Mrs. Zeigler, Mr. Fleming, John L. Holmes, candidate for Assembly, and James P. Aikens, candidate for Alternate Delegate to the Republican national convention.

BELLEFONTE KIWANIS

Charter Meeting and Banquet at Brockerhoff House.

Charter meeting of the Bellefonte Kiwanis was held Tuesday evening in the Brockerhoff House. A banquet preceded the meeting. Most of the members and their ladies were present. Frank A. Crawford was toastmaster.

Singing of America was followed by invocation by Rev. Wilson P. Ard. Judge Quigley made a pleasing address of welcome and Herbert A. Moore, governor Pennsylvania district, responded with greetings to the new club, explained the policies of Kiwanis and presented the charter, constitution and by-laws, which were accepted by President Ard.

Charles P. Taylor, district secretary, congratulated the club on its splendid personnel and said he was quoting Al Stimer, International organizer, when he said, "The Bellefonte organization consists of the finest body of men with whom I have come in contact with in my work." Robert Owens, president of Tyrone Kiwanis, acted as sponsor and presented a beautiful flag, which was accepted by Kiwanis John G. Love.

Music by the "Williamsport Four," all Kiwanis, and the Bellefonte Academy orchestras, added much to the occasion. The dining room was decorated with club colors. Mrs. James K. Barnhart won the attendance prize—a pair of gray suede slippers, with hose to match, given by Kiwanian H. C. Yeager. The attendance was 105 with 52 from Bellefonte, 4 from DuBois; 5, Williamsport; 6, Tyrone and 39 ladies.

Cleaned Big Spring.

Bellefonte's beautiful Big Spring was cleaned last Friday by Borough Manager J. D. Seibert and a crew of men. The water was lowered about 6 feet and two large triangles, studded with large spike nails and used for the purpose, were pulled over the bottom by means of long ropes and the grass and moss cleaned out of our famous spring, which provides the town with an abundance of the best of water. The walls were scoured and the pipes cleaned. A number of persons watched the work at intervals and marveled at the quantity of water that continously to comes out of the ground, clear as crystal and pure as exists, apparently an inexhaustible flow.

Old Superstitions Are Still Practiced

Potency of Ring, Glove, Pin and the Old Shoe.

Richmond, Va.—The life banishment from Princess Anne county, Va., of Annie Rogers because she was said to have killed the mules of her enemies with a magic wand illustrates the same fetichistic spirit which causes many people the world over to endow commonplace objects with amuletic powers. Seventy-year-old Annie's wand was a cane which she used to support her aged body. The negro folk of Princess Anne county, however, believed it to be the staff of a sorceress. Hence the cane now keeps company with other favorite charms which, like gloves, stockings, shoes and even pins, many age-old superstitions and traditions have enshrouded with mystery.

The ring, for instance, has always been an occult token. An emerald ring, the superstitious still believe, endows its wearer with pure thoughts. Should the same ring be broken, however, it becomes a harbinger of ill fortune and of a decline from virtue. Many of the housewives of the provinces still carry in their pockets or about their throats a toadstone ring, a practice established centuries ago to preserve the mother and her infants from evil influences.

As a curative the ring is also cherished. It is still used by the European peasants in following the advice, "Use amulets against agues," which Sir Thomas Browne gave his patients more than 300 years ago. Silver rings are especially useful in curing cramps, fits and epileptic attacks, the simple English housewife believes. Lead and quicksilver rings, moreover, are highly prized as enemies to headaches.

Quaint Old Customs.

Many quaint old customs and superstitions featuring the glove still survive. A pair of gloves was placed on a long pole as a means of advertising or opening a fair in bygone days and this custom still continues in many parts of England. In Saxon times, moreover, the gauntlet was used as a token of the privilege of holding a market and as a mark of the king's consent.

According to Sir Walter Scott, the phrase "right as my glove" signified that pledging a glove was a sign of good faith, or taking one's oath. Many other attributes were assigned to the glove. It was, when worn in the hat, a testimony in ancient times that its wearer was a good farmer.

The glove has always signified dignity, especially in the traditions of the Church of England. When a consecration of a bishop took place the archbishop was presented with a pair. They were of lavender color with golden fingers. This hand-dress was also always hung on the pews of those who died early and were unmarried. To bite the glove was a mark of deadly enmity or revenge.

The familiar "old shoe" of the wedding is a tried token of good luck. How the custom ever originated is not certain, but it is believed by many to be a feigned attack upon the bridegroom for carrying off the bride. This idea is suggested by the early barbaric practices of capturing the bride against resistance.

Others, however, attempt to trace the hurling of the wedding shoe to the custom of the ancient whalers. Godspeed and good-luck were in the olden days synonymous with throwing old shoes at the vessels as they left the wharves.

Symbol of Authority.

Still another theory is that which allows the wedding shoe to become the symbol of authority and dominion over the bride by the husband. To receive a shoe in Biblical times indicated the conferral of ownership, just as the return of the shoe signified the relinquishing of it. In this period the father always kept the discarded shoe of his daughter as a symbol of his possession and it is believed by some that the familiar practice at modern weddings is only the persistence of the old custom in which the father threw the shoe at his new son-in-law as a sign of surrendering his proprietorship over the bride.

Stockings, like shoes, have many legends and beliefs woven about them. To wear a stocking inside out is still regarded as lucky. Bad luck, however, overtakes the unfortunate who finds out her mistake before taking off the stocking. Good luck always awaits the person who has the wisdom of putting the right stocking on first. Woe unto him or her if the left is put on before the right.

Even pins have been potent talismen in the past. Anyone having a bitter enemy whom he wanted to punish had to do nothing but make a rude effigy of his foes. After inscribing the name of the enemy on the image, all that was needed was to stick it full of pins, each pinhole causing pain in that part of the victim's anatomy which in miniature was already being stabbed.

Wishing wells are still popular trysting places for the lovers of Normandy. Sweethearts, according to tradition, will have all their wishes fulfilled by the simple expedient of making the wish and then dropping a crooked pin in the well.

To Shave Voters to Prevent Repeaters

San Juan, Porto Rico.—Unusual precautions are to be taken to prevent repeating in the coming presidential elections in Santo Domingo. Safety razors, indelible ink and possibly nitrate of silver are discussed to mark voters and prevent repeating.

In previous elections each voter was required to stick his finger in a pot of indelible ink. This year not only will each voter be required to be marked but an election official will shave him. The question of where the voter will be shaved is still under discussion some advocating shaving the back of the hand while others favor shaving a patch of hair from the head back of the right ear.

Oldest Fraternity Is Granted a Charter

Ten Presidents Have Been Enrolled by It.

New York.—In announcing the plan to celebrate fittingly the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of its founding, Phi Beta Kappa, the college honor society, announces that ten presidents of the United States, beginning with John Quincy Adams, were members of the organization. The society has just been granted a charter from the New York state board of regents, more than 147 years after a group of men founded it in Revolutionary days.

"Phi Beta Kappa is the oldest of the Greek-letter college societies or fraternities, and is in fact the progenitor of the entire college fraternity system," says a statement recently made public. "It was organized December 5, 1776, when the first meeting was held at the College of William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va. A few college societies are older than Phi Beta Kappa, among them 'Whig' and 'Clio' at Princeton, but none of them sought to expand by the organization of similar societies in other colleges. Phi Beta Kappa began to think of reaching out when it was but little over two years old, and at the celebration of its third anniversary it granted a charter for a branch at Harvard, and four days later another for a branch at Yale.

Closed by British Army.

"Just two years later—in January, 1781—the coming of the British army closed the college and also the society's activities at William and Mary; not, however, until the members had sealed up their records, which conclude with the assertion of a 'sure and certain hope that the fraternity will one day rise to life everlasting and glory immortal.'

"Many of the early members became men of distinction, as legislators, diplomats and judges, two becoming United States senators and two judges of the Supreme court—Bushrod Washington, a nephew of President Marshall, who was chief justice for nearly thirty-five years.

"The branches at Yale and Harvard soon came to occupy important positions in these colleges. A marked feature of their activities was their anniversary gatherings, usually held during the college commencements. These attracted wide attention by reason of the distinguished audiences that attended and the prominent men who delivered orations.

"In June, 1824, General Lafayette attended the anniversary at Harvard and listened to an oration by Edward Everett, afterwards president of Harvard and later the orator at Gettysburg when President Lincoln delivered his famous address.

Has Ninety-Nine Chapters.

"From those early days Phi Beta Kappa has grown until there are now 99 branches or chapters, as they are called, in as many of the leading colleges and universities of the land. Nearly fifty years ago women began to be admitted to membership. They could be accorded this privilege because Phi Beta Kappa had come to be recognized as an honorary society, admitting only the highest grade students from the graduating classes.

"Its members continue to occupy positions of prominence in every walk of life. Ten of them have been presidents of the United States, beginning with John Quincy Adams and including Theodore Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Woodrow Wilson and Calvin Coolidge. Forty-four per cent of all men and women honored by tablets in the Hall of Fame at New York university are members of Phi Beta Kappa. Many religious, political and social leaders are members, and also a great company of authors, educators and distinguished scientists.

"The esteem in which membership is held is evidenced by the fact that in 1917 Honorable Arthur J. Balfour and 12 graduates of Oxford and Cambridge, who were members of the British commission sent to arrange for the participation of the United States in the World war, gladly accepted membership. All four of the delegates selected by President Harding to represent the United States in the international conference for the limitation of armament were members of Phi Beta Kappa.

To Celebrate December 5, 1926.

"Being the oldest college society in the United States and having had such a distinguished career, membership is counted a great honor and many colleges are eager to secure charters. Chapters are now found in every section of the United States.

"Plans are now forming to celebrate the one hundred fiftieth anniversary, which will occur December 5, 1926, in an especially worthy manner. A fund is being collected to build a memorial building at the College of William and Mary, and to provide an endowment to enlarge the society's activities in stimulating scholarly ideals and efforts. It is expected that the new catalogue will be of great assistance in the conduct of the canvass. From it we learn that there are 50 members in Central and South America, 50 in Africa, 265 in Europe and 475 in Asia.

"The president of the society is Dr. Charles F. Thwing, for 30 years president of Western Reserve university, Cleveland, O. Among the members of the senate are five college presidents, including President Hibben of Princeton and President Lowell of Harvard; Albert Shaw, the editor of the Review of Reviews; John H. Finley of the New York Times; Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance company; John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the secretary of state, Charles E. Hughes."

SUING FOR $11,000,000

Edward S. Huff, formerly an engineer of the Ford Motor company, who is suing for $11,000,000 which he claims is due him as royalties on his invention of the magneto fly wheel, now used on all Ford cars. He made it when working for Ford, and says he was to receive $2.50 for each one used. The defense claims he was given $10,000 for it and that there was no word of royalties. It will be interesting to radio enthusiasts to know that Mr. Huff is the inventor of the aerialless radio with one of which he is here seen.

Negligees for Easter Bride; Hats for the Wedding Cortege

IF SOME of the negligees that add so much grace and glowing color to the lingerie departments of the big shops were moved over to the dress department they would pass for evening gowns. They are made of airy and supple fabrics, laces and nets.

The negligee is privileged to use flowing draperies and goes somewhat farther in the matter of picturesque designing than any other of our garments. Most women aspire to owning one of these beautiful and fragile affairs just once in a lifetime, that is, as a part of their trousseau, and a lovely model is pictured here for the benefit of Easter brides. It requires many yards of colorful georgette and as many more of silky lace.

Stars of the first magnitude, like this, are in a small minority in the negligee firmament, but there are many beautiful negligees of plain and printed crepe de chine. They are shown in all the light colors and in black combined with brilliant, high color printed patterns. Black with American Beauty or black with orange are favorite combinations. In company with these are some very sedate models in sand, gray or beige made up with collars of tucked net and lace. Next to these rank pretty breakfast coats of plain and changeable taffeta. These are sometimes decorated with narrow laces, used for making fetching and frivolous looking pockets and for finishing neck and sleeves. Voiles and fine, printed cotton crepes, in the same colors as silks, are also available for these garments.

After the bride has settled, once for all, the vital matter of her wedding gown the item of next importance in the wedding cortege comes up for consideration. It is the choice of hats for her maids. The very best that the art of millinery has to offer blossoms out in Easter and June bridals.

But this year it is fashionable to be conservative; brides are choosing gowns for themselves with an eye to getting much use of them after their initial appearance, and hats for their maids that will have a career to look back upon when summer is done.

Those old-time and unexcelled favorites, leghorn and hair braid capelines, present themselves among the candidates for bridesmaids' hats. Very often they are trimmed with flowers. A leghorn with facing of georgette crepe and lavish trimming of narrow picot-edged ribbon appears at the top of the group of hats pictured. Crepe is folded about the crown and many loops of ribbon are massed at the side.

HATS FOR EASTER AND JUNE WEDDINGS

The shape at the right commends itself to the bride who is considering small hats for her maids. It is a crochet straw, faced with crepe and trimmed with wild flowers. A beautiful hair braid, at the right, has a wide border of silk on the brim and rows of plaited narrow ribbon over the crown. A miniature tapestry piece in silk furnishes a front decoration and is placed in a frame of shirred ribbon and needlework.

Light brown hair braid, moire ribbon and a jeweled pin contribute a lovely foundation for a soft lace drapery in the all-brown hat that finishes the group. Come to think of it, there is nothing prettier for bridesmaids, or more useful for dressy wear, than lacy brown hats.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly." — Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

Why March Is Most Dangerous

March is the most dangerous month of the year because the change of season is more than a good many systems can stand. Too often it is true that the sick "last only till spring." But if the system is fortified, if the impurities are driven from the blood, and the nerve tissues fed with wholesome and strength-giving pure food medicine, there is no danger in the change of seasons. Father John's Medicine is invaluable as a tonic in the spring. It strengthens the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter—builds up the body. It is this power that has made it so successful in treating colds and throat troubles. No weakening stimulants, morphine or other dangerous drugs.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

"FORTY AND EIGHT" QUARTERS ARE OPEN

Headquarters of the "Forty and Eight," the fun-making branch of the American Legion, has been officially opened in Indianapolis near national headquarters of the parent organization.

"The Forty and Eight," as it is popularly known, is founded, principally for fun, and based on the now famous boxcar in which the men of the A. E. F. moved about France. The cars were destined to hold either forty men or eight horses, but just how the French were ever able to crowd so many men into so small a space remains a mystery to most Americans. Incidentally, the fun originating from the travels of the soldiers in these cars finds a faithful portrayal in ritualistic work of the Legion's "shrine."

At present the organization has nearly 750 "voitures," or local chapters, scattered throughout the United States. To become a member of the organization one must be a Legionnaire and have performed some act of service either for that organization or distinctively for the benefit of veterans. It counts as members the most prominent and active Legionnaires in the nation.

The society has other aims as well as providing enjoyment for Legionnaires. In many places it takes over the function of a county council of the Legion, providing funeral escorts for deceased veterans, raising of funds for the Legion and other movements, and assisting the parent organization in every manner possible. On a national scale the organization has attempted to endow a fund, earnings which will be devoted to care of orphaned children—aside from the Legion's program—and an annual assessment is made on each member for this purpose. As soon as this fund reaches sufficient amount an active program of relief work among dependents of World war veterans will be attempted.

Robert J. Murphy of Nora Springs, Ia., is chef chemin de fer, the principal officer. Lyle D. Tabor, for several years adjutant of the American Legion in Michigan, has been named to the post of correspondent nationale, and is the chief administrative officer located in Indianapolis. Charles W. Ardery of Seattle is auditor nationale. Offices of the society will be located in the buildings of the huge memorial project to be built in Indianapolis, in which space will be provided for the American Legion.

Civic Improvement Is Part of Legion's Work

That the American Legion is organized for selfish purposes for veterans only is easily refuted by the thousand of instances where community development is made subservient to all else. News of Legion participation in every phase of civic betterment is received at national headquarters daily, and recountal of this gives rise to the belief that the Legion is rapidly becoming one of the foremost movements in the nation for progress of the community.

The interest attached to many of these instances of participation by the Legion men brings realization of the possibilities of the organization to many public officials. One of these, a letter of appreciation of the Legion's effort, was written by Richmond D. Moot, chairman of the city planning commission of Schenectady, N. Y., who came forward with a letter of endorsement of the Legion's work in his city. The letter follows:

"The men who served their country in the World war have found another field of service in time of peace, and within the last few years, the Schenectady post of the American Legion has become the leading organization for civic betterment. Single-handed, it secured the creation of the city planning commission to plan the future of the city; it stopped the illegal issuance of sewer bonds; it created a joint committee to study the city's finances; it assisted the naturalization authorities in securing better knowledge of the English language on the part of applicants for citizenship; it has organized and conducted the series of public meetings to welcome new citizens; is has conducted a series of essay contests, the latest being on the civic questions in founding city planning in the public schools; and annually furnishes the schools, both inside and outside the city, with a large number of speakers for all patriotic occasions. It neither fears nor favors any little group or selfish interest, and its members are being drafted in increasing numbers for public service. The Legion has become and is destined to continue the greatest force for constructive civic improvement."

COMMANDER WICKER BUSY LEGIONNAIRE

If any member of the American Legion in Virginia fails to go to the polls to exercise his right of franchise, it will not be the fault of John J. Wicker, department commander of the organization. For Commander Wicker, whose penchant in matters of government has made expression of the will of Legionnaires, his first objective through his year at the helm.

This is but a part of the aim of Commander Wicker to make his department of the Legion one of the most vigorous, if not the greatest in size. Other points of his program for 1924 call for enactment of the adjusted compensation measure by the federal government, erection of a non-utilitarian movement in Virginia as a war memorial, and appointment of a committee in the state law-making body to handle all veteran legislation as has been done in congress.

Wicker has been an ardent Legionnaire almost since the time of the inception of the Legion. He was an organizer in Virginia and was a charter member of Richmond post No. 1. He was elected to serve as a delegate to the St. Louis caucus in 1919, and has attended every national convention since that time. It was through his efforts that the state of Virginia appropriated $5,000 for expense incident to organizing the Legion throughout the state, unprecedented in Legion annals. He held the position of first national executive committeeman from that state, and followed this by a second term, but refused to accept the post for another year. He has served on several important national committees, including the Post Deportation committee, and that which conveyed to the Knights of Columbus the action of the Legion in connection with the preferred memorial building. A most unusual distinction given to Commander Wicker was his appointment to the National Distinguished Guests committee for the Kansas City convention, when he acted as escort to General Diaz during the trip. He directed the first Legion pilgrimage to France as business manager, and through his efforts saved the party thousands of dollars. He was also in charge of the unofficial Legion tour in France in 1922.

John J. Wicker.

Wicker, familiarly known to his comrades as "Jack," is a Kentuckian by birth, though his parents, both Virginians, were but temporary residents of that state at the time. In religion he is a Baptist, as he followed in the footsteps of his father, a Baptist preacher. His grandfather was a Scotch Presbyterian, his great grandmother a Methodist, his grandfather a Roman Catholic, and he has frequently declared that he feels "kin to all denominations."

He was educated in the public schools of the state and took preparatory training at Peddie institute in New Jersey, later attending Furman university and the University of Richmond, where his ability as an orator brought him to the study of law. He was admitted to the bar after he attained his majority.

Wicker had considerable difficulty in entering service when war was declared. First, he was married and had two children; second, his eyesight was defective. He sought admission to the first training camp, to be rejected on account of his sight. Then he volunteered in the navy, the marine and infantry, but was refused each time for the same reason. Desperate in his resolve to serve he memorized the eyetest cards, and was accepted as a private in the aviation signal corps of the regular army. He received a commission with the air service and went overseas where he served with the Five Hundredth Aero squadron.

Legion Emblem Woven in Navajo Blanket

A blanket woven by an expert weaver of the Navajo Indian tribe has been presented to Bronson M. Cutting, retiring commander of the Montoya y Montoya post of the American Legion at Santa Fe, N. M.

The gift, said to be one of the most perfect blankets ever woven in this section of the country, bore the American Legion emblem, the initials of the post and the initials of the recipient, and of his position in the Legion. It was an expression of the sentiment of his comrades toward the Legion man for his untiring services to the post.

Staff of Life in Many Countries

Various Methods of Making Bread Described.

Washington, D. C.—"Though bread may pose as the pancake, the scone, the tortilla, the carta di musica, and the biscuit in various countries, getting the wherewithal to buy it or the preparation of it is of necessity one of the chief interests of man and woman in every clime—even though in the South sea islands it grows on trees," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The Arab woman digs a pit in the sand and builds a hot fire in it. Then she rakes away the embers and plasters her dough on the hot sides. When the bread is done, she picks it off with a pair of tongs.

"Wrapping Paper" Bread.

"The deliciously crisp Persian bread which is bought in enormous flat pancake-like sheets sometimes 30 inches long, is prepared in a number of ways, but that customarily seen for sale in the capital city of Persia is baked in large ovens in which the dough is spread out on great piles of red-hot pebbles. And in olden days there was no profiteering in the staff of life in the Persian kingdom. A baker who left the straight and narrow path of his just profits was thrust into his own oven and nicely browned.

"In some parts of the Arab kingdom the husband does the household marketing and after having purchased various necessary commodities, he then buys a large sheet of native bread, which is of doughlike pliability, and rolls up his purchases in it.

"The Egyptian baker makes 'puffballs,' because he wishes to get the largest loaf out of the smallest amount of flour. One writer describes it as a hole wrapped in a crust. The dough is rolled out as thin as a pie crust and the edges of two pieces joined all around; the heat does the rest.

In Norway "Bread Hangs High."

"The Ecuadorean woman follows a very interesting old custom. She bakes bread in the shape of people and animals for All Saints day.

"The Sardinian housewife has a big baking day once every week. Flour is kneaded in large earthenware bowls and rolled very thin on a table that is so low that the cook must kneel before it. Nearly every home has its own flour mill made of black lava and fashioned almost like those unearthed at Pompeii and Herculaneum. The woman performs the whole process of cleaning and grinding the wheat, sifting the flour, and baking the bread. She uses very little yeast and her baking must be done to a turn because the supply must last for a week. The large thin circular pieces are called 'carta di musica,' meaning paper to write music on.

"The well-known flat-bread of the Norwegian peasant is made by mixing coarse barley meal and water, rolling the dough thin and baking it over a round flat baking-stone under which a fire of fagots is kept burning. Enough of this bread is made at one baking to last a whole winter. Holes are punched in the cakes so that they can be strung on a pole and placed across the ceiling. It often happens in some of the peasant homes of northern Norway that a man can reach up and tear off a piece of this bread as he wants it.

Tortillas for Mexicans.

"In Syria the hearth is often two stones between which fagots are placed and the bread is cooked on an iron plate placed on top.

"Some of the Indian tribes of the Pacific slopes of the United States make a kind of flour from acorns which they soak in boiling water, mould into a flat cake and cook in the sun. The tortilla of the Mexican is almost as much a part of his costume or background as his huge peaked hat. It is a kind of flapjack which it takes a cultivated taste and a gastronomic trick or two to appreciate. It is made from Indian corn which has been parboiled and crushed into a paste and is baked on an iron or stone plate but not enough to make the tortilla brown.

"Cassava root makes one of the principal foods of the people of tropical America. From the coarse meal, somewhat resembling oatmeal, thin round cakes are made.

Scotch and Indians Have Scones.

"In India the natives eat round, flat cakes of unleavened wheat bread called 'chapatties.' The cook shapes them with his hands and bakes them on a griddle on the coals. They resemble to some extent the thin sheets made of wheat flour and water, called scones, which are eaten in Scotland.

"One of the most interesting of the unleavened breads is the Passover bread which has been used by orthodox Jews since the time of Moses. It is made much like the most primitive bread—a mixture of flour and water baked in round cakes—and resembles the calcined remains of cakes made from coarsely ground grain which have been recovered from the Swiss lake-dwellings of the Stone Age. In those days, however, the grains used were barley and a one-grained wheat.

First Bread From Barley.

"Egyptologists believe that barley was the first grain used by the ancients in their bread-making, but wheat must have come into use soon after barley. Loaves of bread are represented in sculpture on ancient monuments. There were two quite familiar varieties—a small round loaf somewhat like our muffin and an elongated roll sprinkled on top with seeds like the modern Vienna roll. Incidentally the Vienna roll was introduced into the United States during the Civil war when a 'war bakery' operated in the basement of the United States capitol turned out products to feed the populace of Washington.

"The Egyptians evidently first learned the use of leaven and taught it to the Greeks, Jews and Romans who passed it on through the nations they subjected.

"No story on bread would be complete without at least a reference to the black bread of Russia, which has for so long been the staff of life to the masses. The United States has its distinctly typical forms of bread, such as the hoe-cake, the corn-pone and the 'spoon bread' of Dixie, and the rich brown mass that is served with Boston's Saturday night beans."

$16,000,000 Given Ex-Enemy Aliens

Washington. — About $16,000,000 has been restored to 5,500 former enemy aliens by the alien property custodian under provisions of the Winslow bill permitting the return to owners of trusts seized during the war up to $10,000 in value. A total of 12,500 claims have been filed under this act.

Thomas W. Miller, the custodian, in a statement issued recently, indorsed bills introduced in congress providing for investment of seized funds while in the hands of the government, declaring that, if enacted, they would "place in channels of trade a large amount of funds now lying dormant."

Funds seized by the alien property custodian from German and Austrian fire insurance companies of California would be attached for $2,800,000, representing interest on policies held by victims of the San Francisco fire, under claims filed with the State department by the Policyholders' Association of San Francisco.

Foreign Profiles for N. Y. Anniversary Coins

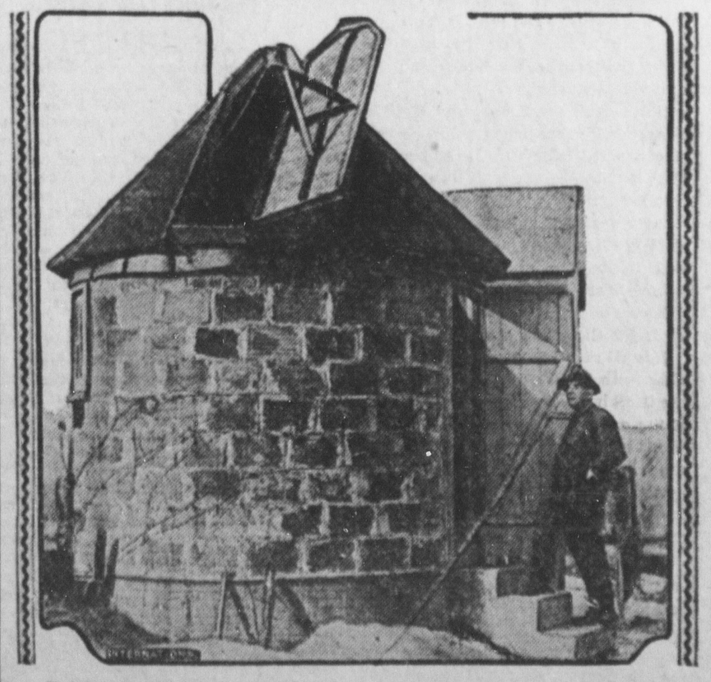
New York.—In connection with the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of New York state in May, announcement has been made that 100,000 special 50-cent pieces will be issued shortly. New Netherlands and the middle Atlantic states were settled in 1624 by the Walloons, French and Belgians. One side of the coin will show the profiles of Admiral Coligny and William the Silent. On the other side will be a picture of the ship New Netherland sailing for America. The designs were suggested by Dr. John Baer Stoudt and were worked out by George Morgan, the artist, at the Philadelphia mint.

The Fifth National bank of New York is agent for these coins, but they will be handled by all national banks.

Old Documents Displayed

Washington.—The originals of the nation's most historic documents—Declaration of Independence and the Constitution—long stored in a vault and displayed only on special occasions, now are on public view in a specially constructed shrine in the congressional library.

Observatory Built by Iowa Farmer



Being seventy-two years of age is no handicap to Frank Carrington, a farmer of Washta, Ia., and an authority on the solar system. Carrington determined to build an observatory on his farm and proceeded to do so. While not very large in size, it is equal in effectiveness to many of the country's largest observatories. The entire roof may be turned in any direction with the slightest pressure of the hand. The cost of building this one-man observatory was just seventy-five dollars.

FOR ALTERNATE DELEGATE.

THE REPUBLICAN is authorized to announce the name of James P. Aiken, of State College, as a candidate at the Republican primaries, on April 22nd, 1924, for Alternate Delegate to the Republican national convention from the 23rd Congressional District. Mr. Aiken announces that if elected he will be instructed to vote for the nomination of Calvin Coolidge for President. On that platform he respectfully asks the active support and vote of every Republican in Centre County.

INSTRUCTED FOR COOLIDGE.

We desire to commend the outspoken, courageous position of Mrs. Mountz, of Clearfield County, and Mr. Connelly, of McKean County, who are in the field as candidates for national delegates instructed for Coolidge for President. Republicans throughout Centre County cannot but admire them for adopting such a course. As we have stated on several occasions, any aspirant for national delegate has a right to favor the candidate of his choice for President. At the same time the voters, before going to the polls, have a right to know who the candidates for delegates will support in the national convention. Mrs. Mountz and Mr. Connelly are for Coolidge, which is in accord with the preponderance of sentiment among Republicans.

It is stated that United Stares Senators Pepper and Reed, and also Governor Pinchot, are personally pledged for Coolidge. If so, they should make this pledge a public one. They owe this to the Republican voters whose support they ask. Mr. Strassburger, of Montgomery County, a prominent independent Republican, is not on the slate of seven candidates for national delegates-at-large selected by the party leaders. Mr. Strassburger, nevertheless, is submitting his candidacy to the Republicans of the State on two distinct issues: First, that he is committed to and instructed for President Coolidge; and, Second, that his candidacy is a protest against Governor Pinchot's efforts to go to the convention unpledged publicly for Coolidge or anybody else. It is Mr. Strassburger's contention that Governor Pinchot wants to continue in this position with the hope that he may overthrow the Coolidge candidacy and have himself nominated.

Unless Senators Pepper and Reed and Governor Pinchot publicly declare themselves as instructed for President Coolidge, it may be accepted as reasonably certain that Mr. Strassburger will receive many votes of Republicans who are for Coolidge and who are entirely within their rights in wanting to know in advance of the April primaries who the candidates for delegates-at-large will vote for in the Cleveland convention.

It is all very well for Pennsylvania to view with interest the development of the Coolidge movement in other sections of the country. It seems to us that it would be more to the point if Pennsylvania were to take without further delay a commanding position in the situation by instructing solidly for the President.

WOMEN AND TAXES

Milesburg looms in the spotlight as taking the initiative in drastic measures to compel a woman to pay taxes. When one of the fair sex down there failed to pay, the matter was formally turned over to the Sheriff. Perhaps Milesburg has started something. If the woman in question is required to pay, she will be in fine position to demand that all women, not only in Milesburg but throughout the county, be compelled to do likewise. It is an open secret that hundreds upon hundreds of women in the county have not paid any tax since they were given the right of franchise. Some have consistently refused to vote, believing that they thereby would be absolved from any liability for taxes. Of course, they must pay taxes whether they vote or not. Officials have conveniently blinded their eyes to this situation rather than start something with the women which would, to say the least, prove unpopular. Everybody has, to use a slang phrase, been "passing the buck." Seemingly, Milesburg has spilled the beans. The woman selected down there for a test case has never been accused of being afraid to assert her rights. And, of course, it would seem to be only fair, if she is compelled to pay taxes, that all women be treated exactly alike. Tax Collectors may not relish the job, but it looks to us as if one has been unexpectedly thrust upon them that they cannot very well side-step. The only solution that occurs to us is that women should be elected Tax Collectors. They might overlook some of the men, but its a ten to one bet that they would make women in general come across.

OVER COUNTY

Millheim postoffice was established on March 18 1824. Daniel Keen was the first postmaster.

Movings in Centre Hall have been reduced to a minimum, nearly every family owning their own home.

The weather on Friday—the last Friday in March—was typical of spring. It was, to say the least, a most delightful day.

Jacob Kerstetter last spring made sale of his real estate and personal property at Rebersburg, leaving Penn's valley to locate in Ohio, but one year away was enough. In the near future he will return and will occupy the Robert Diehl home at Rockville, which he has leased.

Lloyd E. Bartges, who sold his fine home on West Main street, Millheim, to Dr. E. M. Miller, vacated last week and moved to Aaronsburg. He plans to return to Millheim by another year, however, having purchased two lots on Gramley's addition, upon which he will erect another fine new dwelling.

Mrs. Clair Boob, of Pine creek, recently fell on a stairway at the farm barn and sustained a compound fracture of one of her arms. Drs. Frank and Miller, of Millheim, reduced the fractures. The family is preparing to move onto one of the Allison farms at Spring Mills, making the accident to Mrs. Boob all the more unfortunate at this time.

Four generations of the Arney family live under one roof in Centre Hall and "hit it." J. J. Arney, the head, is past the four scores mark and retains much of his old time vigor. His son, I. M. Arney, owns the farm, on which he is assisted by his son, Bruce, and the fourth boss is the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Arney, who makes them all step to satisfy his whims.

A Smullton correspondent reported as follows: "Several weeks ago we read with interest the article in reference to the ghosts or stone story from Jacksonville. We do not believe in ghosts but we know personally that there are persons prowling around at night, at the windows of other people, to listen to what is being talked. We have that kind of stuff in our town, for they have been seen and recognized. People of this kind should not forget that it is dangerous business and that it is going beyond their right to pursue such action."

Unable to find a vacant house in Centre Hall, Prof. Heckman, of the Centre Hall High School, was obliged to move to Spring Mills. Centre Hall's newspaper has suggested that the Borough Council have an ordinance passed to release from taxation during a period of ten years all those who build houses in the town, giving the homeseekers the opportunity to more easily pay for their homes. Such an ordinance was once considered by Bellefonte Council, not so long ago, excepting that the tax free period was three years instead of ten. No definite action was taken on the matter.

While coming over the Nittany mountain on a trip last week from Wolfs Store, with a truck loaded with fat porkers, Carl Sager and Thomas Walizer, of Mackeyville, had an experience they will long remember. They had fifteen hogs in the truck and stalled coming up the mountain from Centre Hall. The truck started back and ran onto the embankment, which caused it to upset. Mr. Walizer jumped before it upset but Sager stuck to the wheel. The truck was not damaged much, only some glass broken, but the men were compelled to unload the hogs and drive them about a mile, then reload them again. As a result they were considerably delayed and did not reach their homes until midnight.

Lee R. Markle, on the Colyer farm east of Old Fort, had one of the biggest farm sales in Penn's valley. The total was $4,914. It was a disagreeable sale day, too, but the attendance was large and bidding spirited. The total of the Homan farm sale, largest in that vicinity, was $5,937. The cattle brought $2.661. Guernsey cows sold for $237.50, $227 50, $200, $190, and a heifer for $125. Holsteins sold at $97 to $139. The total of the Sinie Hoy sale, one of the largest near Bellefonte, was $3,900; cows averaged $82.50 and a team of horses was bid in at $430. George Valentine also had a large sale. His total was $4,500. The Jersey cattle sold for $2 700. The high cow brought $172 50 and the lowest $15. There were forty head, counting sucking calves eight weeks old, and the average was over $67 apiece. The cows included several cripples and one 11 years old. The Valentine farm boasted of one the best herds of Jersey cattle in the country and the stock sold remarkably well.

Centre County High School Track Meet

Athletes of the High Schools in Centre County, boys and girls, have started preparation for the biggest event of their careers—the fourth annual meet of the Centre County Track and Field Association. It will be held at State College on May 10 on New Beaver Field.

The list of the events is as follows:

CLASS A BOYS	CLASS B BOYS
100 yds. dash	100 yds. dash
220 yds dash	220 yds. dash
440 yds. run	440 yds. run
½ mile run	½ mile run
Mile run	Mile run
Mile relay (4 man team)	Mile relay (4 man team)
Shot put (8 lb.)	Shot put
Discus throw	High jump
Javelin throw	Broad jump
High Jump	Baseball throw
Broad jump

At the meeting of the association during last Teachers Institute it was mutually agreed, and the executive committee later passed a motion, to replace the baseball throw with the javelin in Class A events for boys.

The executive committee also decided to refer the selections of girls' events to a committee for consideration and action. The 50 yd. dash and ½ mile relay will likely be retained.

Committees were named as follows:

Committee on Girls' Events—Miss Hollingsworth, Bellefonte; Miss Watts, Spring Mills; Miss Long, State College.

Committee on Program—Mr. Welk, State College; Mr. Bennett, Spring Mills; Mr. Erdley, Philipsburg; Mr. Stock, Bellefonte.

Committee on Judges—Mr. Payne, Bellefonte; Mr. Hollabaugh, State College; Mr. Hoke, Blanchard; Mr. Treaster, Pleasant Gap; Mr. Beck, Port Matilda.

Committee on Policing—Mr. Heckman, Spring Mills; Mr. Dale, Spring Mills; Mr. Hockenburg, Millheim; Mr. Pletcher, Milesburg.

Committee on Medals and Awards—Mr. Stock, Bellefonte; Mr. Heckman, Spring Mills; Mr. Payne, Bellefonte; Mr. Wieland, State College.

Committee on Finance—Mr. Sloop, Bellefonte; Mr. Payne, Bellefonte; Mr. Erdley, Philipsburg; Mr. Fuhrman, Centre Hall.

List of entrants must be in the hands of the program committee by April 26, in order to be printed in the program.

An entrance fee of 25 cents for each name sent in is payable with the list of entrants.

Definite decision has not been made as to whether any preliminary events will be held in the morning. The broad track at State College may render this unnecessary, which would prove advantageous to all concerned.

Points will be scored as last year, first place counting 5, second place 3, and third place 1. Boys' and girls' scores will be counted separately in Class A, together in Class B.

Medals will be awarded for first, second and third places. Cups will be awarded for team prizes. Probably small cups will be awarded as relay prizes.

The Association decided that all team trophy cups (not including relay cups) are to be competed for annually until won three times by one school.

Schools will be classified as last year. Class A will include Bellefonte, Philipsburg, Spring Mills and State College. Class B will include all other High Schools.

Officers of the Association are:

D. M. Wieland, State College, Pres.; Mr. Bennett, Spring Mills, Vice-Pres.; E. K. Stock, Bellefonte, Secy-Treas.

Dressing and eating accommodations at the College will be very good.

College students will help conduct the meet in the capacity of track and field officials. With the meet in their midst they will be able to furnish more and better assistance than heretofore.

BLACK HAND LETTERS

Two Rush Township Miners Arrested on Serious Charge.

Two Rush Township miners, also a boy, were arrested at Philipsburg last Thursday charged with sending "black hand" letters to Mike Patrick in an attempt to frighten him into paying over $1000. They were brought to Bellefonte and lodged in jail. They are Joseph Stewart, aged 30, his brother, Goldman Stewart, 28, and Joseph Stewart's stepson, George Stewart, who is but 13 years old, all residents of the Peerless No. 4 region of Rush township.

Mike Patrick, the prosecutor, is a motorman in the mine of the Banner Coal Company. Recently he received several anonymous letters, three of them through the mail, in which he was commanded to place $1000 at a certain place, with a threat of violence if he failed to comply. Upon advice Patrick paid no attention to the letters.

Later a rock was hurled through a window, and another letter was found by Patrick at his front door. Then on Sunday night three bullets were fired into the Patrick house, one of them being within a few inches of striking Mrs. Patrick.

After being assured that the men would not be permitted to punish him if he told the truth, the Stewart lad told his story at 'Squire Byron's office at Philipsburg. He admitted that he wrote the letters, but said that he had been forced to do it by the two men. Just who fired the three shots, or who threw the stone, has not been determined. The lad told 'Squire Byron that his stepfather frequently stripped him bare and then whipped him with a razor strap. The lad is doubly unfortunate in that he has both a stepfather and a stepmother.

Ford Touring Car Wrecked.

The Ford touring car of W. R. Shope, of Bellefonte, driven by himself, was wrecked last Friday morning on a curve along the state road just north of town. Mr. Shope, fortunately, was not injured, but one of his workmen, Mike Mills, was cut about the face by glass from the windshield. One of the large ice cream delivery trucks of the Achenbach plant, at Lock Haven, was being driven past the touring car when the right rear wheel caught the left front wheel of the Ford. The driver of the big truck did not stop, apparently unaware of the accident he had caused. The Ford was thrown from the highway and upset.

Check Forger at Work.

A smooth check forger is reported to have been operating recently in some nearby cities. It might be well for local merchants to be on the lookout.

HOMESTEAD WON.

Had Many Rooters at Basket Ball Tournament.

Homestead won the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Basket Ball tournament at State College during the weekend, defeating their rivals, Nanticoke, in a classy game on Saturday afternoon. The score was 32—21.

A special train brought several hundred "rooters" for Homestead on last Friday evening and many others came by auto or "walker's back." They made things lively and boosted their team on to victory.

In the preliminaries on Friday evening, Homestead surprised all by the seemingly easy defeat of Harrisburg Tech five, the score being 36 to 18. Nanticoke also proved a surprise. Beaten during the first half of their game with Johnstown High, the score being at the end of the half 25 to 21, they staged a comeback and practically swamped Johnstown, the latter scoring only four points while Nanticoke ran up 25, making the final score 46—29.

There was considerable interest manifest in many places where basket ball had been a favored sport during the winter and the results of the preliminaries and the championship game were broadcast by the Pennsylvania State College radio station, giving prompt news to all points.

Dynamited Old Moshannon Mine.

The old Moshannon mine, owned and operated by John Hollenback, of Philipsburg, was dynamited one evening last week and loss of $3,000 was caused, as well as considerable delay in operation. No reason for the dynamiting has been learned.

CONVICT SENTENCED

Q—Were you on friendly terms with him?

A—Yes, sir, we played checkers and dominoes.

A—It started over playing the game domino poker. I had a hand and put in all I had and he told me—there were four or five fellows in the game—some of the fellows throwed their hands in and he raised the pot and I told him I had no more chips and he put his hand down, and he put four twelves down and he throwed his hand and would not let me see and I asked him about the play and he gets mad and throws his hand and tells to the rest of the fellows to give him the chips, and he said he would not give me anything, and he gets up and goes on down the floor and I give the chips, and when the lights went out I came back to his bed and asked him if he would give me my money and before I got a chance to talk to him he took a base ball bat from under the bed and hit me on the arm, and some of the fellows took him out, and about that time an officer comes up and another officer told him to move his bed away from me and I did, and I came back out in the hall and this time he comes out the block and after I hit him ten or twelve fellows jumps and hits me on the head and some of the fellows carried me in the room and put water on my head, and after I come to myself when they put water on my head I stayed away about fifteen or twenty minutes and they took me over to the place they call the B. W. building and I stayed there.

Q—When you struck this man Mason did you have any intention of doing him any serious harm?

A—No, sir.

Q—Did you have any weapon in your hand?

A—No, sir.

Q—Did you kick him or strike him again?

A—No, sir.

Q—Had you ever had a quarrel with this man?

A—No, sir.

Q—Always had been on friendly terms with him up until that night?

A—Yes, sir.

The Court then questioned Muse as follows:

Q—How long after Mason hit you with the bat was it that you hit him, five or ten minutes?

A—Yes, sir. I guess five or ten minutes.

Q—So that when the guard came along to stop this disturbance you were in bed when he arrived?

A—No, sir. I was sitting down.

Q—You were at your bed?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—And Mason was in the corridor?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—And you were ordered to come out and be searched?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—And the fight was all over and you were told to go back to bed and Mr. Mason was to be taken to the hospital so you would be separated for the night?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Without any warning apparently, after the fight was all over, you slipped in behind the guard and delivered this blow?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—There was no reason at that time why you struck that man?

A—I was still mad because he hit me with the base ball bat.

SAVAGE ELECTROCUTED.

Showed No Emotion and Made No Statements.

Lorenzo Savage, Pittsburgh voodoo man and convicted negro slayer of Elsie Barthel, paid the penalty of murder Monmorning and was electrocuted at the death house of the New Western penitentiary at Rockview. He went on the chair at 7:07 and was pronounced dead at 7:13, by the prison physician, Dr. C. J. Newcomb.

Savage was brought to Bellefonte and thence to Rockview on Saturday afternoon in custody of Sheriff R. G. Woodside, of Allegheny County, and two deputies, James Smith and H. N. Forner. He smiled at some jokes exchanged by the officers but had nothing to say. Sheriff Woodside said, "The woman the negro claimed to be his wife in Pittsburgh told me that she was not even his common law wife, had never lived with him, but that he had a wife in the east somewhere that he had deserted. I communicated with his mother and sister, who reside in the east, but they seemed very poor and could not claim the body."

A LITTLE group of senators representing in large measure the forces of disorder are dominating the United States Senate. They are bent on changing the structure of our government and of our economic system. We have followed with more or less care, the investigation in progress.

We think it is largely Bunk.

It has produced some evidence of wrong doing.

A general feeling of distrust.

A great mass of unconfirmed gossip.

But how few hard, cold, facts!

We do not believe that there is wide dishonesty among our public officials.

But are not both the great political parties lacking in courage?

MAKES DARING RESCUE OF GIRL FROM AIRPLANE

Aerial Stunt Performer Is Saved From Death While Thousands Watch.

Houston, Tex.—A rescue in midair saved Miss Rosalia Gordon of Houston from death while more than 5,000 horrified spectators gazed skyward.

Miss Gordon, an aerial stunt performer, was attempting a parachute leap. When she leaped the upper end of the parachute became entangled with apparatus of the plane and left her suspended 20 feet below.

Diavolo, acrobatic airman, climbed out of the fuselage and hand under hand let himself down to the landing gears. With the inadequate footing, he was unable to drag her back to safety.

Kept Plane in Air.

C. H. Pangborn, the pilot, kept the plane in the air, realizing that an attempt to land would have meant instant death to the girl.

Freddie Loon, a Houston aviator, went up in another machine, piloted by Tommie Thompson, to lend aid. A mile from the ground he changed from Thompson's plane to Pangborn's machine. He then worked his way to the landing gear, but even he and Diavolo could not pull the girl back to the machine.

Loon then mounted to the passenger's seat, and, using the auxiliary controls, drove the plane, while Pangborn climbed down to the landing gear and added his strength to that of Diavolo. Between them they brought the girl back to the landing gear. Pangborn again took command of the machine and brought it back to earth.

Pants, Mattress and Quilt Clothe Horse

Winchester, Va.—George W. Fletcher was directed by a court order to provide suitable stable accommodations for a horse, which he admitted, had been kept in an open field for the past month.

Fletcher explained that his stable was crowded to the limit by live stock, and said that to keep the horse from suffering during cold weather he had placed a heavy mattress over the horse, and on top of that he had fastened a bed blanket, two quilts and two rubber sheets. In addition, he had equipped the horse with a rubber headgear to keep off the wind, rain and snow, and had also placed pants on the horse's legs.

People passing the Fletcher premises thought it was moving day at the home.

Fletcher told the court that the horse was fed regularly.

MAN THOUGHT DEAD IS HELD AS OUTLAW

Faked Death to Fool Officers of the Law.

Tokyo.—In a little cemetery near Masuho, Japan, is a grave and tombstone erected in memory of a former chief of the village, a man known far and wide for his kindness and generosity. In jail at Tokyo is the man—held as the leader of a gang of crooks. What the grave holds no one knows.

Nine years ago the man, Issaku Kawashima, was arrested and sentenced to prison for being the leader of a band of robbers. Kawashima appealed the case. Then he died suddenly. His family buried him with great pomp and erected a handsome tombstone in his honor. Scores of neighbors and friends attended the funeral.

Recently it was reported that a strange visitor was seen going into the Kawashima home. Police spread a net about the house and saw the stranger entering. They rushed inside and found the man—none other than the dead Kawashima.

The police declare they have proof that the death certificate was forged, that Kawashima was buried in effigy, and that he since has organized another band of outlaws. His frequent visits to his family proved his undoing, however.

Woman Dares Fire to Save Treasures

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Rare daring was shown by Mrs. Henry Steding, aged sixty-four, who on two occasions reentered her burning home to save a pet or some object which she highly prized. But in the end she was pulled from the flames by her dog.

After making an attempt to subdue the fire, which started under the first floor of her house, Mrs. Steding would not leave the house until she had saved her canary. She was led from the building by Henry C. Young, 511 Montooth street, through the smoke.

After reaching safety with her bird, Mrs. Steding recalled her prize phonograph. She dashed into the house with Policeman Walsh at her heels. The policeman took her back to safety.

Although she was burned about the face and hands and her eyebrows and hair were singed, again Mrs. Steding ran to the house for some treasure. But this time Teddy, her fox terrier, was watching his mistress, and before she had entered the danger zone the little dog had a good hold on her skirt. With the aid of Policeman Walsh he pulled her back to safety. Mrs. Steding will recover from her burns.

Woman Sells Baby to Bury Husband's Mother

Peking.—Poverty stricken by the long absence of her husband, a soldier, a young Chinese mother at Peking, sold her five-year-old baby for $30 so that she might provide a fitting burial for her mother-in-law. The mother had been supporting herself, her baby, and her husband's mother while the man fought in the army.

The trainmen brought the boy to safety and then made a 20-mile run to this place in their icy-wet clothes.

PRICES FAIR TO ALL

Bellefonte Hardware Co.

Why?

Why are we asking for higher rates at a time when everyone is hoping and looking for lower prices generally?

When we adopted our present rates we had some 600,000 telephones in Pennsylvania. Most of the plant for their operation was installed at prices averaging those of 1912 and 1913 for labor and materials, and these rates were calculated to allow a fair return on that investment.

Since May, 1920, we have put in half a million telephones (for a net gain of 200,000), and all of them, including the additional new plant required for their operation, at the new cost levels.

Telephone plant wears out. All replacements, too, have been made at these higher prices.

In the next five years we must put in 925,000 new telephones, gross, to meet the demands of the people of Pennsylvania for service.

Here is the point!

Telephone rates made in 1920, when the investment was $137 per telephone in service, do not provide an adequate return today, when the investment is $177 per telephone in service, and constantly increasing.

A reasonable increase in telephone rates is necessary in order to attract the tremendous amounts of new capital now required, not only to meet the demands for expansion, but also to keep up the existing service.
